NAVY LAUNCHES V-4 MINE LAYER AT PORTSMOUTH

No Submarine Afloat Is Comparable to Vessel
Built for U. S.

CARRIES 88 MEN IN CREW

To Operate With Fleet, Craft
Has All Features Used
By World Navies

By International News Service
PORTSMOUTH, N. H., Nov. 10.—The first mine laying submarine built for the United States Navy and the largest yet built for any navy, the V-4, was launched at the navy yard here today.

The vessel was christened by Mrs. Philip Mason Sears, daughter of Rear Admiral William D. MacDougal, U. S. Navy, commandant of the navy yard here.

As far as is definitely known no submarine afloat compares with the V-4 in size. It is designated for maximum cruising radius and endurance, in order to enable it to operate in conjunction with the fleet. It embodies all desirable features of mine laying submarines previously built for other navies. With this requirement in view, special attention has been paid to habitability, and reliability of machinery. The V-4 is propelled on the surface by Diesel engines of a type that has proved very reliable in service of submarines.

A complement of eight officers and eighty men will be carried. In order to make the vessel more self-sustaining, special attention has been paid to the accommodations of the officers and crew. Among these, are included the provision for evaporating and distilling fresh water for ship's use, special spaces reserved for the stowage and refrigeration of consumable stores, two motor boats for communication with the shore, a moving picture machine, a branch postoffice and the addition of a pharmacist's mate to the complement, together with an ample supply of medicines and surgical appliances.

Every member of the crew is assigned to comfortable berth and a locker of sufficient size to stow his effects. The bathing, washing and sanitary facilities provided for the crew are the equal in all respects to those fitted on modern surface ships. The galley and food storage arrangements are unusually complete, cooking is done by electricity, on hot plates, in ovens or special kettles, ample cold storage capacity is provided and is designed to maintain freezing temperatures, even under typical conditions.

A wooden deck consisting of narrow strips with spaces between, is laid practically the entire length of the vessel, in order to provide a secure footing for the crew and to minimize the effect of seas breaking over the side, a condition which generally obtains on vessels such as submarines, which have comparatively small freeboard. A portion of the bridge is enclosed to serve as a pilot house for the steersman and a shelter for the personnel on watch in inclement weather. Awnings for the bridge and deck are provided for use in tropical waters.

The dip apparatus on the V-4 will be of the latest type, as developed by the navy research laboratory, which is acknowledged as one of the leading scientific organizations in this art at the present time.

DOYLETOWN TO BATTLE LOCA TEAM ON SUNDAY

The big time of the football season, so far as Bristol is concerned will be held Sunday on Sullivan's field, when Doylestown and Loca rivals of Bristol, will meet the Blue and Gold warriors on the gridiron.

Six years ago the county seat gladiators came down to Bristol and held the loca to a tie in a fierce battle. After the game the Doylestown lads swore that they would never come here again, claiming the field was terrible as the fans were worse—that was six years ago.

The difference between the two teams has been patched up so far as the management is concerned, but the same old rivalry exists between the players. Doyletown claiming that Bristol can never defeat them.

The Blue and Gold team has tried a number of times in Doylestown the last few years but has failed to bring home a victory.

"Al" Bauer and his men have held a number of practice sessions this week with the one big thing in mind, "We must beat Doylestown!" So the fans are all worked up to see the greatest game and the greatest crowd of the season, when these two rivals meet Sunday.

ARMISTICE DANCE

A combination Armistice dance will be given in the P. O. S. of A. hall tomorrow night, a Friday evening, November 16th, by the Ladies Auxiliary of the Cornells Fire Company. The Brownie orchestra, of Doyletown, will play the music.

Parents Are Invited To Visit High School Classes

Yesterday morning, another excellent program was heard by the students of the junior and senior high schools. The program was arranged by Miss Taylor and Mrs. Monroe.

So far this week the parents of the pupils have not attended any of the programs, which are excellently arranged to celebrate Educational Week.

The program for today, known as "Opportunity Day" is as follows: Hymn, "Work for the Night is Coming"; Bible reading; "The Value of Vocational Education in High School," William Winslow; poem, "The Song of the Builders," Violet Hambling; solo, "Confidence," Marion Rommel; "Our School and Its Opportunities," Lester Slattoff; song, "Just Follow Through," school; "Opportunities in Business," Beryl Wilson; announcement, Mr. Reed; "I Want to be an Office Boy," school.

Friday being the final day of Educational Week and celebrated as Armistice and Citizenship Day, a program has been arranged by Mr. Shoemaker and Mr. Kohn. The parents of the scholars are invited to visit and change to different rooms to see the progress of the pupils.

The program for Friday will include: Hymn, "Onward, Christian Soldiers"; Bible reading, Miss Bartine; bugle call by local Troop No. 2, Boy Scouts; pledge of allegiance to Flag; song, "There's a Long, Long Trail A-Winding," school; speech, Lester Slattoff; "Washington Post March," orchestra.

RED CROSS SETS GOAL OF 5 MILLION MEMBERS

This Is to Be Slogan of Drive
Which Opens
Tomorrow

CHAIRMEN ARE NAMED

"Five million members for 1928." With this as the slogan for the Eleventh Annual Roll Call and with a goal which calls for an increase of some two million members, the Red Cross comes to the American people this year with twelve months of service behind it greater than any given since the war.

Armistice Day which marks the anniversary of the end of the World War, will launch the annual membership enrollment effort of the Red Cross to continue until Thanksgiving Day. In the Southeastern Pennsylvania Chapter which includes Philadelphia and the adjoining Counties of Bucks, Delaware, Montgomery and Chester, an intensive effort will be made to redouble the membership figures of previous roll calls. Hundreds of volunteer workers will go to the residential districts and to the industrial and business sections to sign up Red Cross members for 1928.

Mayor W. Freeland Kendrick, of Philadelphia, is the honorary roll call chairman for the Southeastern Pennsylvania Chapter, and the honorary roll call committee includes the Right Reverend Joseph F. Berry, D. D., Charles E. Berry, His Eminence D. Cardinal Dougherty, Archbishop of Philadelphia, Rabbi William H. Fine, Rabbi of the Right Reverend Thomas J. Garland, D. D., Reverend Alexander MacColl, D. D., Honorable J. Willis Martin, Effingham B. Morris, Dr. Josiah H. Penniman, Reverend A. Ray Petty, D. D., Samuel Rea, Edward T. Stotesbury, Samuel M. Vaudelin, and Honorable Robert von Moschizker.

Increased support from the American people is necessary if the Red Cross is effectively to assume the new and great responsibilities which rest upon it. In disaster relief, at home and abroad, there is a persistent demand for a broadening of Red Cross disaster service. During the Mississippi flood, the Red Cross gave emergency relief to 750,000 persons, and at one time served a million meals a day. How gigantic is this task of administering disaster relief is evidenced by the last annual report.

During the last fiscal year the Red Cross gave relief in 91 major and minor disasters in the United States—in other words it was called upon to relieve distress somewhere in the country every four days of the year. This was in addition to 21 foreign disasters which occurred last year, and the record of these and similar services since 1922 shows why it has been necessary to expend $5,194,000 for direct disaster work over and above the restricted contributions given for that purpose.

In Pennsylvania, aid was given in seven instances—during three mine explosions, three tornadoes, and one fire. This service in time of catastrophe, is only one feature of the Red Cross program which includes the care of thousands of ex-service men and their families not yet rehabilitated; educational work in the field of public health; life saving; first aid and similar activities.

Only four per cent. of the total population of Philadelphia and the four adjoining counties in the Chapter is signed up in the membership of the Red Cross.

Organization for a wide-spread enrollment in the five counties is now in progress under Colonel J. Franklin McFadden, chairman of the Southeastern Pennsylvania Chapter which has headquarters at 1610 Locust street. Members of the Executive Roll Call

THE AMERICAN RED CROSS IS INDISPENSABLE

In its special services to the people it has become as valuable in peace as in war, and we turn to it instinctively and confidently when sudden calamities occur. Not since the war has the organization borne such a heavy burden of service as during the past year when, after the Mississippi flood, there were 600,000 people in its care. This is apart from its work in 76 other disasters in the country last year of which 7 were in the State of Pennsylvania.

Membership in this great humanitarian army is a privilege and an obligation. Each year there is renewed proof of the efficiency and preparedness of this organization in responding to the call of duty. It has become the recognized agency of our Government and of the American people in meeting emergency at home and abroad.

It is not alone in time of disaster that the Red Cross serves humanity; as a definite duty placed upon it by Congress, the Red Cross does much to prevent as well as relieve suffering. It is known and loved as "The Greatest Mother in the World" by thousands of ex-service men not yet recovered from disabilities received during the war.

The most democratic organization in the world, the Red Cross must depend for its very existence upon the support which it receives from the rank and file of people during the annual Roll Call when membership dues are received to sustain its future work.

The organization turns to us now for support in the Eleventh Annual Roll Call asking for a membership double that of last year so that at all times it may be ready to respond to the increasing demands made upon it.

I strongly urge every man, woman and child in the community to become members of the Red Cross in the period of the Roll Call between Armistice Day and Thanksgiving.

Burgess.

SPRINGFIELD ELEVEN WILL BATTLE B. H. S.

Two Groups Have Never Met
On the Football Field
Before

BOTH TEAMS PRIMED

By Thomas Juno
For the past few days the Bristol high eleven has been put through strenuous practices for their battle with Springfield high here tomorrow. The two teams have not met before and a starting of a rivalry usually means a scrappy game. Last Friday Bristol traveled to Cheltenham and received a trouncing from those lads, 31-6. Springfield has played Cheltenham and held them to a 19-0 score. As far as scores are concerned Springfield is favorite over the locals.

Coach Townsend has spent most of his time this week in trying to develop more of a perfect defense and a stronger aerial attack. A stronger defense will be made on the kick-off, this week as last week on the kick-off, Riley, the Cheltenham quarterback raced 70 yards for a touchdown. Many other faults of the Cheltenham game will be corrected in this battle.

Captain "Whity" Opydyke has been ill, and hasn't reported for practice this week. His position will likely be filled in by Harvison. Harvison is the handy man on the high school team. He has played three positions this season. He played a fine game at Cheltenham last week, and will likely show up good tomorrow. Coach Townsend will likely pick a player to act as captain of the team.

Earl Wright will be the other end. Carnvale will start at center while the guards will likely be Dries and Satterthwaite; while the tackles will be Schiffer and Winslow.

De Risi, the all-around player, will most likely start tomorrow's game at fullback. He has been practicing this position all week, and has shown great skill in punting, hitting the line, and running and throwing forwards. It is also probable that Hanson, who played a good game last Friday, will be in the line on the offense, and De Risi will shift to tackle on the defense.

"Porky" Earle, Bristol high's excellent line plunger, and "Les" Slattoff will be the half backs while the quarterback will be filled in by either Strumfels or Spadaccino.

Springfield is coming here with a fast running attack and a clever aerial attack. With both teams primed up for the game a large crowd is expected. Game starts at 3.45 p. m.

Peter Connelly Hurt Crossing Highway Here

Peter Connelly, well known insurance man of Market street, was struck by an automobile driven by Edward Wilkinson, 232 Harrison street, last night, at Mill street and Highway.

Connelly, evidently did not see the machine and according to police report, walked into the path of the car. He was not seriously injured.

RETAIL MERCHANTS WANT CONTINUOUS SUPPLY

General Public's Voice Enters
The Anthracite Debate
Today

WHAT MUST BE DONE

By S. I. Neiman
I. N. S. Staff Correspondent
MOUNT CARMEL, Pa., Nov. 10.—The general public's voice entered the anthracite deliberations here today when the retail merchants, speaking in behalf of the consumers of coal, demanded an uninterrupted supply of anthracite.

The dealers called upon the anthracite co-operative congress to take steps toward guaranteeing continuous production at the mines. This guarantee must be given, the dealers averred, before the industry can regain lost markets. The present condition in the hard coal business, they blamed on strikes in the past, which destroyed the public's confidence in anthracite.

Spokesmen for the coal merchants' associations in Pennsylvania, New Jersey, New York and New England served this warning on the Congress. The dealers' program of rehabilitation was:

1. Guarantees of continuous production.
2. Guarantees of a high grade supply.
3. Reduction in costs by elimination of waste and improved production methods.
4. Repeal of the state coal tax.
5. Lower freight rates for short hauls.

Bucks Lodge of Moose Out To Double Membership

Bucks Lodge, No. 1169, Loyal Order of Moose, will open a big drive for new members at the Home here tonight at eight o'clock.

Arrangements have been completed for a big booster meeting and several persons of prominence in the order will address the gathering. Among those who will speak tonight are the following:

William K. Fryling, Asher K. Andrews, both of Doylestown Lodge; and William H. Murphy, of Bristol.

The committee has arranged a program of entertainment and lunch will be served.

Bucks Lodge now has 620 members and it is planned to double this number by New Year's Day by broadcasting the wonderful protection which the order gives its members.

ROAST PIG SUPPER

The 32nd annual pig roast and chicken supper will be given Thursday evening, Nov. 17th, 1927, in Trades Hall, Wood street, from 6 to 9 p. m., under the auspices of the members of Bethel A. M. E. Church. Baskets served from 5 to 5.30 p. m. There is an error on the tickets—"Baskets served from 5 to 6 p. m."—but instead they will be served from 5 to 5.30 p. m.

REV. BINGHAM WILL SPEAK HERE TOMORROW

Chaplain of Marines Will Address High School
Students

ARMISTICE PROGRAM

In response to the invitation issued by the Robert E. Bracken Post, American Legion, to the public school children of Bristol, to participate in the parade tomorrow, the School Board has agreed to excuse all the children in the fourth, fifth, sixth and seventh grades, at 9.45 o'clock, whose parents are willing for them to parade, with the understanding that the children shall return for the afternoon session.

The senior and junior high schools will have an Armistice Day celebration tomorrow morning in the high school auditorium. Rev. James J. Bingham, a former pastor of the Bristol M. E. Church, who was chaplain of the 6th Regiment of U. S. Marines, and saw service abroad will be the speaker.

The pupils in the first, second and third primary grades, being too young to participate in the parade, will attend school as usual. The schools will be open all day, operating under the schedule adopted at the beginning of the school term. It is estimated that five hundred children in the fourth, fifth, sixth and seventh grades will parade.

Mrs. Karnell Gives Two Interesting Talks

Over 200 women of the town gathered in the auditorium of the Bristol high school last evening to listen to Mrs. Minnie K. L. Karnell, who delivered a most stirring talk on "America's Future and the Present Generation."

The speaker, who has had unusual opportunities of studying national problems in Washington, and who has been interested in welfare work for years, was very capable of handling her subject and ably held the attention of her auditors from start to finish. The meeting was in charge of the Mothers' Association of the schools.

Speaking to the girls of the high school yesterday afternoon, she chose sections from the song, "Follow the Gleam," which the girls had sung previous to her discourse, and wove about these various portions of her speech. She told at that time that everyone should have an incentive, and in following said incentive there are four main points to keep in mind, namely: The age in which we live, the country in which we live; the body in which we live; and the call to service. Mrs. Karnell remarked that the call to service is the call of the high school age. "We should take advantage of every opportunity which this age offers and follow the gleam," she added. "This was a most wonderful talk for the girls," one of the Reserves members remarked today.

During the evening meeting a double vocal duet was participated in by Mrs. LeRoy Fisher, Mrs. John Moyer, Mrs. Frank Parr, and Mrs. Wilkinson Bracken. A second selection given by the group was "Hark to the Mandolin." "Whispering Hope" was well received, being rendered by Mrs. Moyer and Mrs. Parr. Mrs. M. D. Weagley pleased with a piano solo.

At the business session held prior to the talk by Mrs. Karnell, it was reported that the Mothers' Association had realized the sum of $250 on the supper held recently. Nomination of officers was postponed until the next business meeting.

Hospital Auxiliary To Give Another Card Party

Monday evening at 8.30 o'clock, the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Harriman Hospital will hold a card party in the Elks' Home.

The games "500" and pinochle will be played. The committee in charge of this party is Mrs. Chester Beaton, Mrs. Louis Dries and Mrs. Joseph Singer and they are working hard trying to make this party a successful affair.

ARMISTICE DAY TO BE OBSERVED HERE TOMORROW

Elaborate Program Arranged
By Bracken Post
Members

BANQUET IN EVENING

Captain O'Hay Will Be The
Orator at Evening
Exercises

Tomorrow, Armistice Day, is to be observed with an elaborate program in Bristol under the direction of Robert W. Bracken Post, No. 382, American Legion.

In the morning there is to be a parade of ex-service men, fraternal orders and school children which will terminate at St. Mark's Cemetery, where three miniature caskets containing French soil taken from the graves of three Bristol boys will be interred.

Hugh B. Eastburn will be the chief marshal and will have as aides Dudley E. Bell and Jacob C. Schmidt, Jr. All three will be mounted.

The parade will proceed to march at 10 o'clock sharp and will be comprised of three divisions. The first division will be headed by Eastburn and the second by Bell and the third by Schmidt.

The first division will comprise the Robert W. Bracken Post, No. 382, American Legion Bugle Corps, Colors, firing squad.

The three miniature caskets will be carried by school children.

Second division will comprise both the public and parochial school children and members of fraternal organizations.

All three miniature caskets will be buried in one place in the cemetery with the Rev. Joseph Murphy, pastor of St. Mark's Church, officiating. The Rev. James Sullivan will make a short address.

Singing, "America," by school children led by John H. Brehm, past commander.

Rev. Howard L. Zepp, pastor, First Baptist Church, and the Rev. Joseph L. N. Wolf, pastor of St. Barnabas' Church, Philadelphia, will participate in the program.

Singing of national anthem by school children.

Benediction by the Rev. John Ellery, Ph. D., pastor of Methodist Church.

Pupils of the fourth, fifth, sixth and seventh grades of the public schools will be dismissed at 9.45 but must return for the afternoon session of school. The public school children will be met at their respective schools by representatives of Bracken Post and escorted to place of meeting.

Pupils of St. Mark's and St. Ann's schools will be met by members of Knights of Columbus and members of St. Ann's Holy Name Society, and escorted to the place of formation.

Third division will be made up of members of Bracken Post, American Legion Auxiliary and Boy Scout Bugle Corps.

School children will form on Mulberry street in the order of their arrival with head of line resting at Cedar street.

Fraternal organizations will form on Walnut street with head of line resting at Cedar street.

American Legion Auxiliary will form on east side of Cedar street facing the Post's rooms.

Members of Robert Bracken Post will form on west side of Cedar street, facing Radcliffe street.

First and second division will start to move at the same time except that the members of the fraternal organizations will wait for the school children and then fall in the rear, following the second division the Post members and the Auxiliary members will follow.

Line of march will be along Cedar to Walnut, to Radcliffe, to Mill street, to Otter to St. Mark's cemetery.

Exercises at St. Mark's cemetery will be in charge of the Legion. Clifford Beaton will play "To the Colors." The Colors will then be raised to full staff and then lowered until the end of the ceremonies.

Invocation by the Rev. Paul R. Ronge, pastor of Zion Lutheran Church.

In the evening there is to be a banquet in St. Mark's Hall at which time Captain O'Hay, a noted orator, and called a "Soldier of Fortune," will be the speaker.

Daughters of America To Have Class Initiation

Tomorrow evening, Bristol Council No. 58, Daughters of America, will hold a class initiation to which as many members as can possible be there are requested to attend.

Monday evening Bristol Council will journey to Norristown to a meeting to which all the Councils in the districts have been invited, also state officers. They promise a very good meeting.

All members who desire to go must send in their name or be present at the meeting Friday night. The trip will be made by bus.

CHOIRS MEET

The weekly choir and orchestra rehearsal of Manning Memorial Church, Tullytown, was held at the home of David Reed and a goodly number were present. Refreshments were served.

CONTRABAND IMMIGRATION

No gift of prevision was necessary to foresee that rigid immigration restriction would invite wholesale smuggling of undesirable aliens into the country. But the most pessimistic and best informed on the subject did not anticipate that these smuggling operations would reach the magnitude now apparent.

In the past year more than 19,000 aliens were caught in the act of entering the country illegally. How many got through the border patrols is not known, but immigration officials estimate their number at 170,000. Apparently, the costly system maintained by the government to prevent this sort of smuggling was only 10 per cent. efficient.

Aliens are smuggled into the United States for two reasons. Some are eligible for admission but are unwilling to wait their turn to come in legally under the quota law. Others cannot meet the qualifications required of immigrants. The problem would be less acute if only those that could not get within the quota were involved. It is the knowledge that thousands of undesirable are entering the country every year that causes concern.

While some more effective mode of dealing with this problem must be found, it will not take the form of abolishing the basic restrictions now in effect. Immigration laws can be liberalized to admit relatives of properly admitted aliens, but the country will not permit lowering the barriers that now keep out the floods of immigration that poured in for a generation before the war.

Probably the first step will be congressional action increasing the $1,500,000 appropriation which maintains 5,500 immigration agents along the country's 6,000 miles of border. At that the cost of restricted immigration is probably far less than the cost of unrestricted immigration.

HUMAN CAPACITY TESTS

Despite the criticism which has been made of the efficacy of intelligence tests, the war department is satisfied they have their place in sifting out the recruits applying for enlistment in the army. The tests have been adopted after long study by a board convened for that purpose and a try-out in one recruiting district in each of the corps areas.

One of the tests is an abbreviation of the revised Binet-Simon scale used during the world war. The changes are still being rung on the validity and meaning of the conclusions as to the general level of American intelligence. That test alone is probably inadequate for a general sizing up of intellectual calibre. But it may have its place, subject to future necessary allowances as part of such an estimation.

The war department practice will be to supplement this test by another, called the minimum mental examination. The recruiting officer gives a literacy test, a reading vocabulary test, a vocal vocabulary test and, for non-English speaking applicants, a performance test. All these together ought to prove more valuable than the isolated intelligence test. The try-out of the new system ought to be of value not only to psychologists, but to those in the business and the educational field who are seeking a really fair and reliable means to estimate the human material with which they have to deal.

The manly art of cussing will never exactly show a complete decline as long as there are furnaces to be cleaned out and the fire started.

"THE FIRST AUTO," with Barney Oldfield and Patsy Ruth Miller is a Warner Bros. picture of this novel.

SYNOPSIS

In 1896 Bob Armstrong is secretly inventing gasoline engines and openly courting Rose Robbins. Hank, hating automobiles, horse-whips his son and Bob leaves home with Rose's promise to marry him. Steve Bentley proposes to Rose but is refused. In revenge he suggests to Hank that sulphur in a gas tank will cause an explosion. Hank, not knowing that the "Red Demon," who has come to town to race autos, is his son, follows Steve's suggestion. He leaves the trap and catch in Rose races his mare to the track in the hope of saving Bob. Before they can reach the scene the automobile explodes.

"Stop!" she cried, grabbing Hank's arm and pointing towards the fleeing car.

With a jerk Hank brought Bright Eyes to her haunches. The carriage pitched fitfully to a stop. Hank sat staring in horror. Too late! He could think of nothing else. Fascinated, as a bird is fascinated by some loathsome reptile, the two sat motionless. They could neither speak nor act. All they could see was the toy-like automobile running round and round, the flames increasing and gathering volume. As they watched, the car crashed into the fence, and rolled over. They could hear the vibrations of the smash, see the flying pieces. And then the flames enveloped the upturned car.

It was the sound of the crash that had brought the people in the grand stand to such a sudden halt. As they realized what had happened, en masse they hurried out towards the burning car. They swarmed like flies over the field and the course. They began to form a circle about the wrecked machine. Densely they packed themselves in. And they shut off the sight from Rose and Hank.

"Go on! Go on!" Rose was shrieking, shaking her stunned companion. "He may need us."

The sound of the crash had brought Rose out of her coma of fear and now she was all action. Her violence had the desired effect on Hank, and he picked up the whip and cut the horse a resounding crack. The mare jumped forward and started down the hill at a swift pace. The smoke was rising from the center of the crowd, but any view of either Bob or his mechanician was hidden by the spectators.

By this time Rose and her companion had reached the gates. Hank pulled Bright Eyes to a stop and jumped to the ground. He turned to help Rose, but she was already out and running towards the scene of the accident. She pushed people right and left in her frenzy to break through. She elbowed her way with a strength that she scarcely knew she possessed.

At last she neared the center of the rink. She stopped, placed her hand over her mouth to keep from screaming. There lay Bob, burned, his clothes torn, his face scarcely recognizable, beneath the dirt and smoke. She ran towards the figure.

"Bob!" she called, terrified. "Bob! Speak to me! It's Rose!"

"Bob—Bob, dear, look at me—look at me!" She raised the limp head and shoulders in her arms, trying to wipe away the sweat that stood out in beads on the boy's forehead. She leaned over and kissed the hurt mouth.

An improvised stretcher of horse blankets was laid upon the ground. Bob was gently placed in the center.

"Stand back! Give him air! Give him air!" those near the front were shouting.

The Mayor pushed the anxious throng aside and lifted Rose to her feet.

"Dad!" she pleaded. "Dad, is he—is he—?" She could not bring herself to utter the word that was foremost in her mind.

The Mayor shook his head and patted his daughter's arm.

"No, not that, Rose," he comforted, "but he's pretty badly burned, and he's hurt. We've got to get back to the house and get him treated as soon as possible."

The Mayor separated the crowd. He started for the gates, four men carrying the stretcher following him. Behind them, his face blackened, his hair and clothes burned, limped the mechanician. The on-lookers dropped into line and ran ahead or followed the little group.

As Hank saw the stretcher come into view and recognized the limping figure as one of the two men who had been in the automobile and saw that it was not Bob he reeled back against the carriage, clutching at the seat for support.

Then the stretcher was bearing his son. Dead, in all likelihood. Killed by his father. He shuddered. The thought was too hideous.

Rose was rushing on ahead. She got to the waiting automobile and jumped into the back seat. The men followed with the stretcher and hoisted it into the seat along with the girl. She took the boy's head in her lap and drew the robes tenderly about the limp body. Her eyes were bright with unshed tears, but somehow she couldn't cry now. They must hurry—hurry. Something had to be done.

The Mayor jumped into the front seat of the car alongside the driver, while a second car drew up and the mechanician was helped into it. The two automobiles set off down the road, traveling at a snail's pace, for fear of disturbing their occupants. The crowd began thinning out. People ran to their cars and their carriages to follow along into town.

Hank still stood by his buggy, the whip clutched in one hand, the other gripping the arm support. His lips were twitching, and he stared with unseeing eyes at the procession wending its way toward town. The realization of what he had done was beginning to sink into his numbed brain. Yet he was helpless to do aught but stand and wait and watch. Vehicles full of people passed him, but none spoke. None saw him even, for each was intent on the two cars that moved slowly before them.

He turned towards the battered wreck of the automobile. Once such a sight would have filled him with joy, but now he could not even bear to look upon the mass of charred iron and tin. He shuddered and returned to the carriage beside him. His eyes fell upon Bright Eyes, her sides lathered with sweat, her nostrils quivering, her chest heaving. The strain was telling on the horseman, and his bewildered mind could no longer sustain the weight of his conscience.

As he looked at the mare he suddenly began to believe that it was her fault that he had not reached the track in time. He became furious, his old temper returning. He clenched the whip and raised it, glaring at the poor, dumb animal.

"You!" he bellowed, turning on Bright Eyes with fury and scorn. "You failed me!"

As he stood trembling, with arm upraised, ready to bring down the lash, the little mare turned her head and gazed reproachfully at her master. And as he looked into her eyes he realized that, after all, she had put up a brave race against time as she was able to make it. She had done everything possible. It was his own fault—his and no other's—that he hadn't been able to beat down the barriers of seconds. His hand dropped. He leaned against the side of the buggy.

Deserted and alone, he stood, his head bowed on his breast. The crowd had dispersed. The sun was gliding down, sinking in a golden red glow that preaged rain. It was all over now. Dead sea fruit that turns to ashes in the mouth.

CHAPTER XXIV

And so was fought and lost a hopeless battle against the hosts of progress. And to the loser it meant—the end. The bitter end. Despair and ruin facing him on all sides. His son slain by his own hand. All the ideals that he had stood for broken, shattered and scattered to the four winds of heaven. A long struggle, and nothing but defeat for his pains.

Inside his stable that evening Hank sat, pondering. He reviewed the events of his life—events that he had gone over so many times before. But never before had he had to add to them the fatal occurrences of that afternoon. Now, as he saw it, he had nothing more to live for. He gazed about him at the empty stalls, and thought of their bright days when they were filled with neighing, whinnying horses. Now they were but remnants and reminders of the bliss that he had so long and so stubbornly tried to uphold. They might as well go, too.

URGES OBSERVANCE OF ARMISTICE DAY ON FRI.

Doylestown Burgess Wants Citizens to Hold Period Of Silence

BANKS WILL BE CLOSED

DOYLESTOWN, Nov. 10.—Residents of Doylestown are urged in a public request made by Chief Burgess Calvin S. Boyer to observe a two-minute period of silence on Armistice Day, tomorrow, as a thanksgiving for cessation of hostilities of the World War. The period of silence should begin at 11 a. m. It is also suggested that the entire borough join in displaying the national colors that day.

All business places and stores, including banks and the county offices will observe Armistice Day as a national holiday. All ex-service men from every branch of military service have something planned for that day to commemorate the famous November 11 back in 1919 when word was flashed to the United States that an armistice between the contending nations had been signed.

Nine years ago a good portion of the youth of Doylestown was overseas or in military attachments in the United States. With very few exceptions, that same contingent will celebrate in Doylestown and elsewhere next Friday.

The first thing to mark the Armistice week celebration was the sermon preached Sunday morning in Salem Reformed Church by Rev. Charles F. Freeman, Post chaplain of the A. R. Atkinson Post of the American Legion on "A Warless World."

This evening, Armistice Eve, the annual military ball of the Atkinson American Legion Post will be held in the Sixth Regiment Armory. Teachers attending the annual Bucks County Teachers' Institute, are invited to participate in this event.

Armistice Day, Friday, will be a big day for World War veterans. Here in Doylestown there will be a dedication of a memorial tree. The American Legion will assemble at the post rooms at 11:45 a. m. The Legion, accompanied by the bugle and drum corps in the first appearance in the new uniforms, will march to the place of ceremonies and the American Legion memorial tree will be dedicated by Post Chaplain Charles F. Freeman in memory of Comrade Paul Hinkle.

Following the dedication ceremonies, the Legion will proceed to Norristown by motor to participate in the Armistice Day parade and ninth district reunion. Members of the drum and bugle corps will march in new uniforms and non-members who belong to the Legion will form a marching club and wear the Legion cap.

Armistice night, November 11, the annual banquet of the A. R. Atkinson Post will be held. Members of the Legion will assemble at the Post headquarters at 7:45 and proceed to the Doylestown Inn for the banquet and entertainment. In addition to several addresses to be made by Legion guests the Post for the first time will hear the official report of the delegates to the American Legion convention in Paris, to be made by the Doylestown men who attended it.

Several Legion members from Doylestown will attend on Armistice Day, the dedication of the Grand Lodge War Memorial erected in the memorial grove at the Masonic Home, Elizabethtown, Pa., by the Right Worshipful Grand Lodge of Pennsylvania, in memory of those members of the fraternity who made the supreme sacrifice during the World War.

Football fans will have an opportunity next Friday afternoon at 2:45 to see the annual gridiron game between Doylestown High and Quakertown High. This game was to have been played on Saturday but because of the general holiday to be observed Armistice Day and to give those attending Institute a chance to see the game, the change of date was agreed upon by the officials of both schools.

TWO MILLIONTH DODGE SHOWS GREAT ADVANCES MADE OVER EARLY MODELS

The first Dodge was built Nov. 14, 1914, every detail of its construction having been personally supervised by John and Horace Dodge. They modeled the body design in clay. When the car was placed on the market it met with a remarkably enthusiastic reception.

The 500,000th car was completed June 30, 1920, and was considered one of the snappiest roadsters of the day.

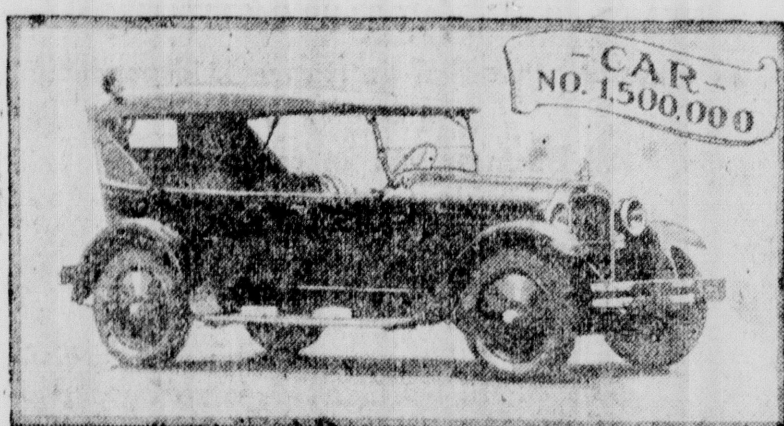

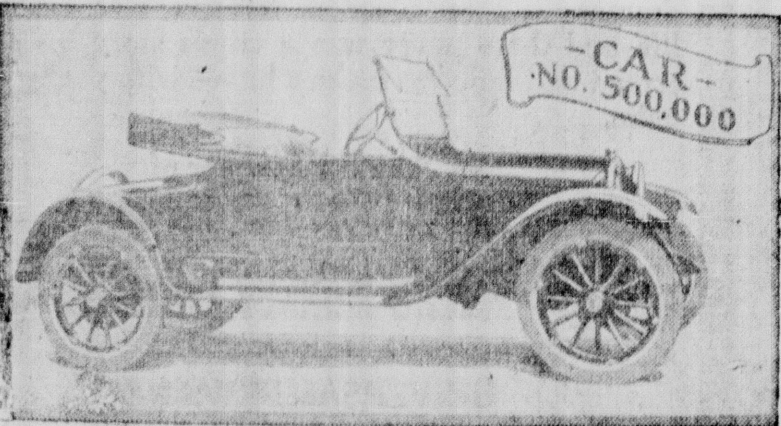

No. 1,000,000 came off the line Dec. 12, 1923, showing great refinements in beauty over previous cars.

No. 2,000,000, "The Fastest Four in America", establishes a production record that is unsurpassed by cars in or above its price class, having been built in just 9 days less than 13 years from the date of the first Dodge.

No. 1,500,000 was assembled Jan. 14, 1926, 11 years and 2 months after No. 1.

DETROIT, Nov. 10.—At 10 a. m., Saturday, Nov. 5th, the 2,000,000th car which Dodge Brothers have made came off the final assembly line, just 12 years, 11 months and 21 days after the first car was built by John and Horace Dodge on November 14, 1914, says Percy G. Ford, 1776 Farragut avenue, local Dodge dealer. No. 2,000,000 is a standard four cylinder leather upholstered sedan and was shipped immediately to W. L. Eaton, Seattle dealer, who purchased it nearly eight years ago upon failing by six months to get in his order in time to get No. 500,000.

The passing of the 2,000,000 mark by Dodge Brothers sets a new record for the automobile industry as no other company manufacturing cars that sell in or above the Dodge price class has yet approached the point of making 2,000,000 cars in the short period of less than 13 years.

A measure of the vastness of the automotive industry and what it means to the prosperity of the nation and to Detroit in particular was furnished by President E. G. Wilmer in commenting upon Dodge Brothers' record. He pointed out that Dodge alone, in less than 13 years of existence has produced products whose retail value is estimated at $2,200,000,000, a sum greater than the entire amount of capital invested in automobile manufacturing plants in the United States.

He also stated that Dodge Brothers has paid its employees in wages during this 13 year period approximately $345,000,000, a sum over one half of the total wage bill of all motor car and truck factories in the United States in 1926.

"Dodge Brothers, which last year was third in the production of cars and trucks," said Mr. Wilmer, "has been undergoing an extensive transition during the past 18 months and has been engaged almost exclusively in a readjustment of manufacturing facilities. We have been getting our dealers in a position to offer their customers a complete line of cars and trucks and Dodge Brothers will be prepared to enjoy in 1928 the biggest business in its history."

A bit of the romance of the automobile industry characterized the final steps in the assembly of the 2,000,000th car as that most who have been identified with the Dodge interests over 35 years were given the honor of tightening the last nuts, testing the motor and making the final inspection tests. These men were associated with John and Horace Dodge, the founders of the now great automobile business that bears their name, many years before the brothers ever thought of venturing into the automobile business and they have been identified with the making of Dodge Brothers cars since No. 1 was built.

As the assembly of No. 2,000,000 was completed Al Livermore, the oldest employee in point of service, with a record of 37 years of continuous employment, took the wheel and with the next three oldest employees, Bill Wohlfell, Al Andrich and Otto Grahl as passengers, drove the car to the loading docks where they were greeted by President E. G. Wilmer, Vice-presidents A. Z. Mitchell, H. H. Springfield and A. T. Waterfall and other company officials and congratulated on their remarkable records.

Mr. Wilmer pointed out that Dodge Brothers has been able to make 2,000,000 cars only through the loyalty of its thousands of employees whose careful workmanship has enabled Dodge cars to attain a name for sturdiness and dependability wherever automobiles are driven.

An enterprising statistician has de-ured that the 2,000,000 cars which Dodge Brothers have built and sold in the past 12 years must have traveled a total distance equal to 600,000 trips from the earth to the moon. He estimates their total mileage at 150,000,000,000. If placed end to end they would make a line that would extend from New York City to San Francisco and back as far as Indianapolis, a total distance of 5550 miles, he says.

TWO MANAGERS ARE NAMED BY BASEBALL

By Davis J. Walsh
I. N. S. Sports Editor
NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—Baseball's annual fall house cleaning swept two managers in Monday in the persons of Bill McKee with the Cardinals and Burt Shotton with the Phillies, leaving only the detail of subtracting one and adding another for the vacuum cleaner at Cleveland.
Of course, the White Sox may decide to play along with their idea that a manager a day keeps the pennant away and dust Ray Schalk right off their managerial door step but, as to that, Ray was supposed to have had only an abstract interest in the management of the club last year, so perhaps the Comiskey at last have found their ideal team leader.

The new Cleveland owners, I understand, are looking for a man who has had his name up in the lights, and, among others, are supposed to have under consideration no less a personage than Tyus Raymond Cobb. Just how far, if a literal inch, this thing has gone, the writer is not prepared to say, but there is no doubt that an appointment of Cobb to Speaker's old job would be an interesting, if radical, step. Frankly, I don't expect to see it taken.

Speaker himself is alleged to be through in Washington and, for a time, the exhorters had him right back in Cleveland at the head of the new club. Of course, boys will be boys and boys will be premature. I suspect they were both that time.

Eddie Collins is another ex-star who has been mentioned for the position but it may be that Edward will decide to remain as close to Philadelphia as possible. Connie Mack is getting no younger very rapidly and, if in the next year or two he decides to step down, Collins is the man who is most likely to get the nod.

Meanwhile, Arthur Fletcher, former manager of the Phillies, has come forward in the light of what is supposed to be a leading candidate for the Cleveland job. In fact, they say Arthur has a right good chance of being named. Cleveland might look further and do worse.

Fletcher didn't make a profound impression upon that solemn, solid all-garage of National League ownership while he was in Philadelphia, but the boy has the fight and the stuff and a co-operating owner some day will bring it out.

The appointment of Shotton yesterday and of Jack Slattery as manager of the Braves are experiments of the first water. Shotton handled the old Cardinals from time when Riskey was at divine worship but, otherwise, neither appointee can show anything in the way of major league experience.

McKee, with a world's championship in 1925, is another matter. The writer always has felt that Bill simply was in the middle in that Pittsburgh upheaval in 1926 and naturally had to take the slap. It seems only bare justice that he is to get another chance.

As for Sam Breadon, he wins the rungless stepladder for managerial changes of heart. Hornsby won him a world's title in 1926 and was demoted. Bob O'Farrell finished a fighting second and this year, with the highest percentage ever reached by a Cardinal team, and was demoted. However, I guess that is no doubt, in the latter's case, that a good catcher was spoiled to make an ordinary manager.

Harriman Church Folks Visit Pastor and Wife

The Ladies' Aid Society of the Harriman M. E. Church, accompanied by their husbands and friends, motored in ten autos to Frankford, Tuesday evening, where they were the guests of the pastor of the church and his wife, Rev. and Mrs. George Moulton.

They were met in Frankford by one of the former presidents of the society, Mrs. Margaret Williams, and her daughter, Miss Grace Williams.

Following the cessation of the business meeting, Mrs. John Moyer, the president now in office, in behalf of the Ladies' Aid Society, presented the new member, Mrs. Moulton, with a basket of handsome chrysanthemums. In her short address, Mrs. Moyer welcomed Mrs. Moulton to the Ladies' Aid, hoping her relations with the Society would be as beautiful as the blooms she presented.

Mrs. Moulton next made an address as did Rev. Moulton and Mrs. Margaret Williams. After which, refreshments were served. The party motored back to Bristol at a late hour having had a delightful time.

The participants were: Rev. and Mrs. George Moulton, Miss Bessie Moulton, Mrs. Margaret Williams and Miss Grace Williams, of Philadelphia, Mr. and Mrs. John Moyer, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Wilkinson, Mr. and Mrs. George Perkins, Mr. and Mrs. H. LEWISTOWN, Nov. 10 (I.N.S.)—James Jordan, of Lewistown, is exhibiting with considerable pride the pet of a wild cat, which he bagged while out hunting turkeys here.

Jordan was searching in the woods for turkeys when he came upon the wild cat, which weighed about 25 pounds. Jordan collected a bounty of $25 on the animal.

"My own amateurish opinion is that prohibition has contributed incidentally to enabling a vast number of families to improve their living conditions and to make at least some progress towards financial independence. The testimony of employers is along the same lines."—Mr. E. C. Forbes, financial writer of the Philadelphia Enquirer.—(Adv.)

FOR JOB PRINTING OF THE BETTER KIND—TRY OURS

PRINTER'S INK INVALUABLE

The modern merchant cannot pack up his merchandise and carry it about the country in order to notify people he wants and merits their patronage. His method—and the only infallible one—is to induce people to come to the place where he keeps his merchandise.

Printers' ink has made it possible for the merchant to attract the public to his store. Printers' ink will always be a tremendously potent factor in the business world.

In no other medium is printers' ink so powerful as when used in the EVENING NEWS-PAPER. Advertising in the EVENING NEWS-PAPER establishes valuable contacts, makes friends, assures prosperity, for the modern merchant.

One cannot make a friend until he has formed an acquaintance. You can make acquaintance of those who are now strangers if you advertise in the newspaper preferred by those who read. People prefer the EVENING NEWS-PAPER because it comes to the HOME when they have the time and the desire to read.

The Courier is an EVENING NEWSPAPER.

5,000,000 MEMBERS GOAL OF RED CROSS ANNUAL ROLL CALL

Need of Expansion Due to Excessive Demands for Disaster Relief and Other Services.

A Red Cross membership of 5,000,000 in the United States will be sought this year during the Eleventh Annual Roll Call, November 11 to 24, Chairman John Barton Payne announced following completion of a study of the demands which the past year made on all branches of the Red Cross organization.

He stressed particularly the increasing demands of disaster relief as pointing to the need for an increased membership to aid in carrying the growing responsibility in this field. "For several years our membership has remained at a little more than 3,000,000 adults," he said. "We are proud of this membership. It is a body of our choice spirits, but there are many more of like spirit who should be counted in this Roll Call. We need at least 5,000,000 adult members. We are obliged to draw annually upon our reserves, and the demands upon us increase each year. Our Roll Call funds should meet our normal needs and add something to our reserves for the great disasters. We must have a large reserve. No one can tell when a situation may arise when this reserve will be essential to the lives of thousands.

"The Red Cross cannot wait to raise funds," Judge Payne declared. "Action prompt, instant, is its life. Instant action means the lives of many. It must be strong, it must be ready; this means a large reserve."

Total expenditures of the American Red Cross in the fiscal year to June 30 last in all fields amounted to $16,139,345.63, of which $11,360,348.60 represented the National Organization's appropriations and $4,779,000 the cost to the Red Cross local chapters. Included in this total was a disaster relief, for which $8,216,532.31 had actually been expended to the close of the year. This does not cover expenditures which continued to be made in the Mississippi Valley flood, or in other disasters originating during the fiscal year but whose operations extended over into the current period.

Service to disabled veterans, an other outstanding demand on the organization, called for $2,930,223.56, and service to men of the Regular Army and Navy, $507,322.30. Maintenance of an enrolled Nurses' Reserve, from which the needs of disaster service and other emergencies are met, and which numbers more than 45,000 nurses totaled $45,245.83. For the Public Health Nursing program, a nationwide activity of the Red Cross, $801,063.99 was expended. Other services contributing to health and well-being included instruction in Home Hygiene and Care of the Sick, for which $165,330.16 was spent; Nutrition Instruction, which teaches thousands annually correct food principles in relation to health, $171,370.73; First Aid and Life Saving, a service which is actually curtailing accident and water casualties, $351,780.06; Junior Red Cross, the children's branch of Red Cross activity, and one of the most unique organizations in the world, $582,424.23.

Other Red Cross Chapter activities, including Home Service to civilians amounted to $1,220,000; while other national domestic operations required $236,147.17.

An outstanding American contribution to the rest of the world is Red Cross assistance in foreign disasters, which the report shows, called for $256,962 to the end of the fiscal year. Activities under the League of Red Cross Societies, Junior Red Cross foreign projects, assistance to American insular chapters, and other foreign and insular work completed the demands on the total appropriation for the year.

These expenditures were cited by Chairman Payne as emphasizing the need for a growing membership and increased income.

Red Cross Nurses Aid In Every Great Disaster

Two major disasters, the Florida hurricane and the Mississippi flood, required the services of Red Cross nurses in large numbers over a long period of time in the past year.

In the Florida storm, service of 350 nurses is recorded. It is estimated that about 100 others assisted in the first few days as volunteers. The total number of nurses in the Mississippi valley flood was approximately 200. In every major disaster the services of Red Cross nurses are needed, lending added importance to the enrolled reserve which now numbers more than 45,000 Red Cross nurses. These nurses are available for any emergency, though they are on duty in hospitals and in private practice. They constitute the reserve of the Army and Navy nurse corps in time of war.

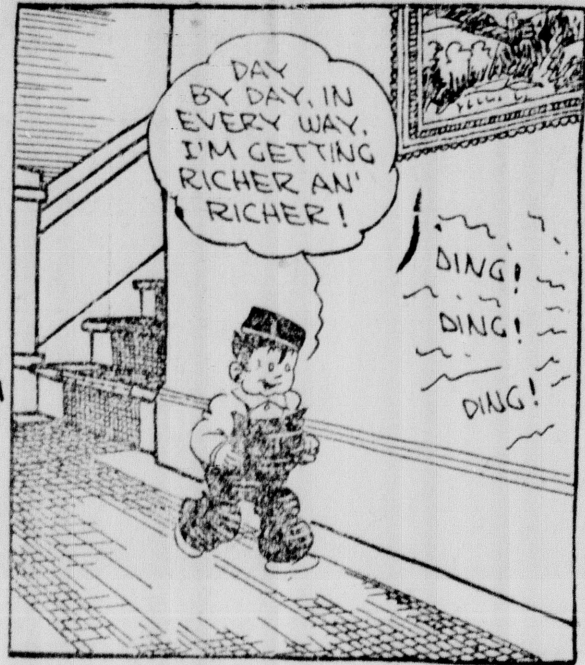

Besides emergency duty, Red Cross nurses assisted materially in many local services, Chapter reports to National Headquarters indicate. The Eleventh Annual Roll Call of the Red Cross, from November 11 to 24, it is pointed out, is an opportunity for everyone to become identified with the Red Cross.

COLONIAL THEATRE

Amusement seekers who visit the Colonial Theatre tonight, tomorrow and Saturday, will find one of the most entertaining programs ever presented at this amusement center.

Manager Mari has indeed outdone himself in the booking of this elaborate bill. Who has not read of the Atlantic City Pageant? The Associated Press and the papers of Canada and in every corner of Europe has been carrying stories of the Atlantic City pageant and national beauty contests for weeks previous to and after the carnival held at the seashore city.

Leo Tati is bringing to the Colonial Miss Philadelphia (Miss Anna Reifer) together with a condensed version of the pageant, with a dazzling array of peach-blossom youth and Venus form.

Bristol Women Attend Meeting At Doylestown

Yesterday, Mrs. Serrill Douglass, Mrs. John Moyer, Mrs. Frank Lehman and Mrs. Emil Metzger attended the meeting of the Bucks County League of Women Voters in Doylestown.

Ordinary business routine occupied the morning hours. Mrs. Edward Yarnall, of Swarthmore, always an interesting and instructive speaker, addressed the ladies on the "Aims and Advantages of the League in Instructive Educational Phase, which makes for the Education of the Masses Regarding Citizenship." Her talk was very thorough and comprehensive and much enjoyed.

Another important lecturer of the afternoon was Mr. Walton, of George School, Newtown, Pa., who talked on the Federation of Educational Associations that met in Toronto, Canada, recently. Mr. Walton delivered a splendid resume of the meeting. The meeting on Wednesday was made up of representatives of the different leagues of the county.

Attractive Wedding In Tullytown M. E. Church

TULLYTOWN, Nov. 10.—The parsonage of the Manning Memorial M. E. Church was the scene of a very pretty wedding on Tuesday at 4 p. m., when Miss Helen E. Marshman, of Coatesville, became the bride of Mr. Horace E. Patton, of Downingtown.

Rev. Francis J. S. Morrow officiated, and the impressive ring ceremony was used.

The bride was charmingly attired in a gown of canton blue velvet trimmed in ecru crepe and wore a hat to match dress and ecru silk stockings and black slippers. She carried a beautiful bouquet of white carnations. She was attended by her sister, Mrs. Edgar D. Faddis, of Coatesville. 550 wore a handsome gown of china blue, flat crepe, trimmed in ecru metallic with hat to match the gown and ecru silk stockings and black slippers.

At the close of the ceremony the bridal party entered the dining room of the parsonage where an elaborate wedding dinner was served. They then left on an extended honeymoon trip to Washington, D. C., Virginia and other places of interest. They will be at home to their many friends in their completely furnished home, 141 West Lancaster avenue, Downingtown, Pa., after November 21st.

RHEUMATISM

While in France with the American Army I obtained a noted French prescription for the treatment of Rheumatism and Neuritis. I have given this to thousands with wonderful results. The prescription cost me nothing. I ask nothing for it. I will mail it if you will send me your address. A postal will bring it. Write today. PAUL CASE, Dept. K-201, Crookton, Mass.
